

14th December 2020

Press Release n.95

Individual Ice Speedway European Championship

On Sunday 13th December the Individual Ice Speedway European Championship took place at the beautiful new Arena Lodowa in Tomaszow Mazowiecki, Poland.

The race, originally scheduled on March, has been postponed due to the Coronavirus outbreak and yesterday was raced behind closed doors following to the Covid-19 governments restrictions, but live broadcast on NC+.

Excellent ice conditions enabled very competitive racing with the Russian Dmitrii Solyannikov who got the title in a hard-fought night race. Russian riders confirmed their dominant position in this discipline in a duel of 17 riders from eight different countries.

Final standing:

1. Dmitrii Solyannikov, Russia
2. Konstantin Kolenkin, Russia
3. Nikita Toloknov, Russia