Superenduro Cup:
lights on the first European race of the 2023 season

New year, new season.

The Superenduro Cup opened the 2023 sporting season with its first round at the SachsenArena in Riesa, Germany.

As usual, the Riesa club crafted a technical and tough track for the European and world's best riders, as the race was held together with the Super Enduro World Championship.

Experienced riders of the sport fired up a huge crowd and created an unforgettable atmosphere in the stadium.

The European Cup saw 26 riders on the starting list and 14 qualified to the final races. In the first manche Polish rider Grzegorz Kargul won ahead of English Dan Peace, twice second, and Hungarian Roland Liszka, twice third. Race 2 was ruled by Hungarian Mark Szoke.

Now, stay tuned for the last event in Budapest on February 4th!
